Merrimack River Watershed Council

The Industrial Revolution found its birthplace in the Merrimack River Valley, and now a new revolution is running through the Valley – a Green Revolution – right here where America first recognized and harnessed nature's energy. Support the Merrimack River Watershed Council (MRWC) and join in a new era of river protection through innovative public and private partnerships to promote a healthy ecosystem.

MRWC is the environmental steward of the region. Our Merrimack River Water Quality Monitoring, Analyzing, Protecting & Promoting Project (MAPP) is a major effort to help protect the river – the primary resource in the region where you live, work and play.

MAPP Project's second year continued success was provided by financial donations from Massachusetts Environmental Trust, the Stevens Foundation, the Davis Conservation Foundation, the EnTrust Fund and the Cabot Family Charitable Trust. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) provided critical equipment and laboratory resources. Volunteers giving of their time, energy, and effort is priceless. Appreciation is extended to all contributors.
